VEST POCKET CURE
25 DYSPEPSIA 25
CLERGY & DOCTORS
TESTE.

Bishop D. S. Doggett, (Southern Meth.)
It is an excellent corrective of Indigestion. I have used it with prompt beneficial results.

Rev Dr. Mangum, Prof Univ. of N. C.
I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket cure.

Rev. Drs Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bap.)
It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who unite to write this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness join to it the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent—Editors religious Herald, Va

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va.
Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are unmistakable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, D. D. Ham. Sid. Col., Va.
It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent Colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly aperient, without nausea.

Rev B. F. Woodward, P. E., Na. Conf,
About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Falling in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything within reason. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and good digestion I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va.
I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, cutting any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to others suffering with happy results. It is the best, safest and most effective remedy I ever knew. For protection from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va.
It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaints in families from indigestion. I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate.
This remedy is of true virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an antidote to our "National Disease." The ingredients are not known to the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

JUDGE STRONG.—Of our distinguished townsman the Wilson Advance speaks in these graceful words:

'The Legislature having abolished the Criminal Court of Wake, over which Judge Strong presided, that distinguished lawyer and popular gentleman has resumed the practice of his profession and formed a copartnership with Maj. A. M. Lewis, of Raleigh. Judge Strong has a strong hold upon the esteem and confidence of the people of Wilson, and was greeted with a hearty and cordial welcome by his many old friends whilst in attendance upon our court this week. His acknowledged ability as a lawyer and his genial and courteous bearing will ever place him in the front rank of his profession and command the highest respect wherever he may go.

BEYOND "MUD-CUT."—The track on the W N C R R has been laid two miles beyond "mud-cut."—An engine and seven cars passed over this point last week. "Mud cut" is three miles beyond Henry's and six miles this side of the tunnel. The track will be laid as far as the tunnel in about two weeks. The work on the tunnel will be completed within three weeks. It will take about one hundred feet more excavating. In the meantime work is going on beyond the tunnel and as soon as there is a sufficient clearing in the tunnel, iron rail will be carried through by hand, and the roadway will begin on the other side.

An engine and construction train were carried over the mountain some time since and are used at present in hauling dirt from the west end of the tunnel. It is estimated that the road will be completed to Asheville, a distance of eighteen miles from the tunnel on or about Oct 1, or thereabouts.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.—Dr. Grissom, so vigorously assailed by Mr. Holt, of Johnston, in the House of Representatives, responds as follows:

RALEIGH, March 15, 1879.

EDITOR NEWS: I have seen in your paper to-day remarks of E J. Holt, of Jonston county, to the effect that I had sent him a message in the nature of a threat to influence his course in the Legislature upon a bill in regard to the Insane Asylum. I sent him no message with any such purpose, as will conclusively appear from the fact that at the time indicated the Asylum bill had already passed. The facts briefly stated are these: Some years ago, on account of his conduct in relation to a patient brought to the Asylum, I had occasion to rebuke him very severely, at which he was evidently much offended. Since then I have noticed his hostility to everything pertaining to the institution. I believe I that his course was influenced solely by spite, and I consider it unworthy a representative to endeavor to damage the insane for such a cause. On the day before his late remarks I was conversing with a citizen of Johnston who has a friend in the Asylum, and I stated to him the course which Mr. Holt had pursued, and that I did not think the people of Johnston would approve it, and that if he continued such course, whatever influence I might have I would use against him as a matter of duty, or words to that effect. I added also that I was not saying anything secretly, but that he might repeat it. I had no other purpose than to rebuke a man who, as I thought, was prostituting his place from prejudice or passion. Mr. Holt's coarse attack, which he availed himself of his position to make, I shall not degrade myself to further notice. Respectfully,

EUGENE GRISSOM.

The Calamity of Szegedin.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The calamity by water which has overwhelmed the Hungarian city of Szegedin seems to be of a magnitude quite unparalleled in the history of destruction by floods. Accounts of catastrophes caused by the elements are, perhaps, the most attractive kind of reading possible. Man's struggling against the pitiless elements will excite deeper sympathy than any event with the cause of which human beings have to do. The imagination is strongly appealed to. The powers of flood and tempest become living, supernatural, malignant, even in minds not easily superstitious. It is possible to stay the rage of a human destroyer by valor and self-sacrifice; but earthquake, storm and lightning make human effort and supplication alike futile. The writers who appeal to the imagination have not failed to make use of the rage of the elements to excite the emotions. Horace, in one of his well remembered odes, describes a flood so fast and overwhelming that the fishes were able to feed on the mountain tops, where, before, the timid deer lived. George Eliot places the denouement of one of her great novels, "The Mill on the Floss," in a terrible inundation, and the devoted brother and sister go down "in an embrace never to be parted living through again in one supreme moment at the days when they had clasped their little hands in love and roamed the daisied fields together." The author of "Put Yourself in His Place" cannot find situations for his hero terrible enough until he places him in the catastrophe of a bursted dam and has him rescue his loved Grace Carden from a situation that is altogether hopeless. The best efforts of the novelists, however, do not surpass in tragic interest what history has given us as real and authentic. We need only to recur to the struggle of the Hollanders for centuries to keep the ocean back; the broken dykes, the cities even yet lying fathoms deep, under the waters; the broken levees of our own Mississippi, and the crevasses which have inundated hundreds of square miles. We have not forgotten the terrible Mill River disaster in Connecticut a few years ago, when the bursting of a dam swept a valley clear of everything living for miles, and transformed in a few minutes a scene of rural comfort into one of ruin and devastation. But all these seem insignificant compared with the destruction of Szegedin. At this place all of the conditions seem to have been favorable for the destruction of life and property. This city is the capital of the County of Csongrad, Hungary. It is situated on the largest tributary of the Danube, the River Theiss, about seventy-five miles from its confluence with the former. It stands on a vast marshy plain and has a population of eighty thousand. The Theiss rises in the Carpathian Mountains, which separates Hungary from Gallicia, and flows almost directly south, through Hungary. At Szegedin the River Maros, its largest tributary, enters from the east, the Maros having its source in the mountains of Eastern Transylvania. The two rivers meet almost at right angle—the Moras, in fact, just before its junction with the Theiss, making a slight curve toward the north. Szegedin is on the west bank of Theiss, directly opposite the mouth of the Maros. To protect the city from inundation, dykes, or levees similar to those of the Mississippi had been constructed, and, as the city grew in size and influence, the dykes were, from time to time, strengthened and enlarged. The embankments were only sufficient to withstand the ordinary freshets of these rivers and The extraordinary case was sure in time to come, and for this Szegedin was not prepared. The sudden melting of vast quantities of snow in both the mountain ranges in which these rivers take their rise, the unusual increase of water in both streams, added to a strong wind which blew from the right quarter at the right time, conspired to produce a resultant elemental force which no skill and endeavor of the inhabitants could withstand. The accounts of which we have by telegraph are somewhat fragmentary, but they are enough to show that a calamity of unusual horror has occurred. The embankments, it seems, were triple in form. On Monday two of them had burst and only a single barrier kept the flood from pouring over the city. On Monday night civil rule took its departure and the city was declared under martial law. It was besieged, but not by man. Every able bodied citizen was forced to work on the dykes under pain of death. The waters rose higher and higher during Tuesday, the wind increased in violence, the embankments were steadily undermined, and finally, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, the catastrophe came and Szegedin was overwhelmed. The inhabitants in large numbers had fled, but thousands who would not or could not flee remained. There was a scene of horror. Houses fell in ruins by hundreds and their inmates perished miserably. The old city was entirely under water. Eighty thousand people were in a few minutes rendered homeless. One hundered square miles of surrounding country was flooded, and everything contained within that circuit was destroyed. The end is reported to have not even yet arrived. The waters are still rising, and even greater destruction of life and property is feared.

Calamities of this kind, we say, whether fictitious or real, appeal to the immigration in an extraordinary degree. It is fortunate that we are thus affected.

Sharp Letter to the Commissioners.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Great excitement is caused in political circles because Mayor Cooper to-day sent a sharp letter to the Police Commissioners Erhardt, Smith and and Nichols, declaring that the discipline and efficiency of the police force had deteriorated and that the Police Commissioners have not caused the streets to be cleaned and they, the commissioners, have allowed personal dissension to preclude proper exercise of their official duties; The mayor notified the commissioners that they must answer on Monday next at noon, as to why they should not be removed from the office. Commissioner Wheeler is sick but a similar notice will be served on him.

[CONTRIBUTED.]

The Sabbath Day.

"Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." Again, "six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work." Again, "in it—that is, the Sabbath—thou shalt not do any work." This commandment was given to the Jewish church, and it is as binding now on all as then. Christ has expressly affirmed this law, and has declared himself "Lord even of the Sabbath day." He also says, "it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day," that is, works of benevolence and mercy are peculiarly appropriate to this day; and works of absolute necessity may be done on this day. But what are the works of necessity? Any one who is really desirous of knowing what secular or worldly work may be done without sin on Sunday, may surely and accurately ascertain by reading the sayings of Jesus in the Gospels. No one need doubt on this subject who will candidly examine for himself. No secular work which may be absolutely necessary should be done on Sunday, which could have been previously performed or postponed until Monday. "In it thou shalt not do any work" is the command.

Christians are especially enjoined to keep holy the Sabbath day, for themselves, for their families, for their churches, and as an example unto others. Outsiders, that is, the unregenerate, seldom read their bibles. If a christian break the Sabbath, the unregenerate person will say, 'see that professor; some people say he is a good man, but to my knowledge he doesn't keep his Sundays as he should, and is, therefore, no better than I am." Christian man! christian woman! is that ungenerate soul stumbling over you down to the pit?

Christians must keep the Sabbath, not only with their bodies by resting from the labors of the week, but they must keep it with their minds and hearts. Like John, on the Isle of Patmos, they "must be in the Spirit of the Lord's day." They cannot be true to their Master if, on the Sabbath day, they engage in any secular amusement, or think or talk about their wordly concerns, or lay plans for business for the ensuing day, or gossip from house about the merely worldly amusement of the day, or neglect the assembling of themselves together for divine worship.

Sabbath-breaking is one of our greatest national sins. Let every follower of Christ, and every thoughtful, moral person who is not a christian, unite to encourage a due observance of this holy day.

[COMMUNICATED.]

"Simply to Thy Cross I cling."

This touchingly beautiful motto was left unfinished by the beloved Mrs. Evie Thomas, whom death has lately removed from a devoted husband and a deeply attached family, to the joys of the heavenly world. The three first words are completed—with her characteristic neatness—the central figure is passed over, and work resumed on the "I" succeeding it. Untouched by her expert fingers is the Cross itself. This is the symbol of that on which her Saviour died, and to which, by faith in Him, she had clung so long. Who, knowing the deep, calm reverence of her life, can doubt that she paused here in silent, adoring recognition of the divine halo that once encircled it, and, with something akin to the spirit of her Lord and Master, breathed the prayer that the efficacy radiating therefrom, should increase in brightness and glory as long as one she loved remained, to appropriate and rejoice in the incomparable mission of God's love to man! How often, as the years come and go to those who loved her well, will the eye rest upon this piece of work, left thus incomplete, while time will continue to weave through the thread of each individual life choice recollections of her numerous virtues; her pure, noble, consistent Christian womanhood!

This touching relic from her lovely life originated the following appropriate and beautiful lines, (written by a friend of the family,) which will not fail to be appreciated by every intelligent reader. S. E. G.

"TO THY CROSS I CLING."

I.

The sunshine of my soul, whate'er betide,
Oh Christ thou art. To thee, to thee alone
I look for joy and comfort: Thou hast died
To ransom me and to make me all thine own

II.

Sometimes I walk in sadness, but thy face
Doth cheer me always, for the joy and grace
That come a dying eternally but trace
Thy dealings with me as I draw near home.

III.

Oh home! all glorious, home in Heaven with thee,
Where sin is not, and sorrow cannot come;
Oh wing my steps with joy, oh comfort me,
As day by day, my Lord, I draw near home.

IV.

My willing fingers fain would weave the sign
O, that dear Cross to which my soul doth cling;
My all in all thou art, forever thine
In life, in death, in heaven's eternal spring.

V.

No winter in that world to which I go,
No autumn there, no wind to sear or blight,
No death-cold waters in their ebb and flow,
But all is youth and joy, all life and light.

VI.

Tied by the tenderest bonds to those I love,
I ask, I come, and yet I linger here;
Oh hear my prayer, Father in heaven above,
And give me these in that eternal sphere.

VII.

Let us be with thee, husband, children, sire
And mother and all, in that serene abode;
Oh grant me only these my earth's desire,
My Saviour Jesus, and my Father, God!

VII.

Dropped from her failing hand the sign
Unfinished here, but wrought in wondrous light,
In that high world, the saint's eternal rest,
Where faith and Hope are lost in perfect sight.

Plagues and Pestilences.

A few years ago, some unknown investigator announced that we, in common with all other people on the globe, were about to enter an era of plagues and other calamities hitherto unparalleled (and his declaration was supported by a rather curious array of historical facts and figures) that the passage of the large planets through the perihelia of their respective orbits was attended by pestilential visitations on earth of almost direful character, and the outbreak of plagues in Russia and Brazil has called attention to this strange prediction. The perihelion passages of Jupiter, Neptune, Uranus and Saturn will all take place within the five years from 1880 to 1885, and Mars (though a little fellow, he may as well be counted) will also reach the perihelion point of this orbit during the same period. The coincidence which the investigator predicted would be a little more wonderful if the planets were not a year behind time, or the plagues a year too early, but it is a curious and puzzling fact that malignant diseases of various kinds are decimating the inhabitants of the earth at a fearful rate. Not only are Russia and Brazil afflicted with scourges of the most terrible description, but there is an epidemic in Siberia of an alarming but unknown nature; a mysterious disease has appeared at Tripoli, against which the Mediterranean ports have issued quarantine regulations; the cholera is raging at Morocco and at other points in northern Africa; a plague of some sort has broken out in Thessaly and on one of the islands in the Ægean sea, yellow fever germs are said to threaten fresh horrors at the South, and in this country and all over northern Europe, lung and throat diseases were never so prevalent as now. Whether planetary movements have anything to do with this condition of things or not, it behooves the health authorities of every city in the country to rigidly enforce the sanitary regulations now in existence and to frame others that shall meet the abnormal necessities of the time. The people of Astrakhan recently put all their doctors at death, but, although the plague is reported to have been instantly appeased by this prompt sacrifice, we hope that our physicians can be put to a better use.

A Heavy Snow Fall.

LONDON, March 15.—There has been heavy snow fall in North Scotland.

The New Spanish Cabinet.

Martinez Campos is to-day the foremost man in Spain. As a soldier-politician no one of his countrymen has exceeded him in real power or fame, unless it was Espartero during his short-lived dictatorship. And yet Campos is the youngest of Spain's field marshals, having been born as late as 1812. But his popularity and strength are not to be wondered at. It was he who first claimed Alfonso—that carried over to the exiled prince the whole army of eastern Spain, and made the restoration possible. It was he that won over the Carlist leaders, and secured the pacification of Navarre and the Basque provinces. It was he who "by arts and devices" conquered the Cuban patriots, thus preserving to Spain her most valuable colony. He did not whip the revolutionists, because he could not, but when he found that he could not, he proceeded to buy out the Cubans with bribes, either of money or needed reforms. He secured peace, and he has ever since, as captain-general, endeavored to carry out the large reforms that he promised Cubans. The obstacles thrown in his way by the treacherous home politicians led to his departure for Spain something over a month ago, and the king, who is his friend, decided that the reforms in colonial administrations which he asked for should be carried out. This led to the downfall of the Castello ministry, and to the formation of a ministry by the all-conquering Campos hims lf. He is claimed by all parties in Spain, and it is not known what course he will pursue except as to the colonies. But the progressive enlightened policy that he urges for the colonies will naturally be complemented by a like policy in home affairs. It is plain that Spain, as well as Cuba, has reason to rejoice that so capable and energetic a man has been entrusted with the chief official responsibility. He is also very popular, a fact that will doubtless insure him, for some time to come at least, the necessary strength in the stormy cortes to carry out any measure or reform that he may propose.

Navigation of the Yadkin.

Charlotte Observer.

A gentlemen in this city is the owner of a farm on the Yadkin river, and on his recent return from a trip to a portion of country drained by that stream, reports that the people are confident that in a short time, at last that portion of the river between Salisbury and East Bend, about forty miles above, will be navigable by small steamers. Through the extraordinary exertions of ex-Congressman Robbins and others, an appropriation of twenty thousand dollars has been secured. To this Capt. John Dobson and others who have especially interested themselves in the matter are confident that an equal amount will be added by the owners of land along the banks of the river. The difficulties to be overcome between Salisbury and East Bend are said to be slight. At the latter point and above it there are numerous obstacles. Exactly what these are and the expense of overcoming them is not yet known, as the report of the engineers sent to survey the stream has not yet been published. In a letter explaining the delay in laying the report before the committee of commerce of Congress, Col. Albert, the gentleman in charge of the work says the difficulty of improving the Yadkin does not arise from a deficiency in water, but in the descent or fall which must be reduced in order to fit the channel for steam navigation. The improvement of the channel is further complicated by mill dams which reach entirely across the river and which can only be utilized by their partial removal. The improvement of this river would be simpler if no dams existed.

Those familiar with the stream are confident that it can be made navigable by small steam wheel steamers at a cost within the amount possible to obtain from Congress and raise by individual subscription. The enterprise is one of great importance. There are no more productive and beautiful farming lands in the State than in the Yadkin valleys.

Valuable Statistics.

The population of the globe is estimated in a late number of Petermann's Mittheuugen at 1,439,145,800. The following is probably the nearest approximation ever made to the number of believers in various faiths of the world. How so accurate a census was arrived at, the encyclopedist does not inform us:

Jews	7,931,080
Roman Catholics	186 860 093
Greek Church	82 926 049
Protestants	131 096 911
Mohammedans	193 453 593
Brahmans and Parsees	1,007,190
Buddhists, religions of the east, and pagans	483,015 475

Another estimate, apparently founded on the same premises, gives it thus: Jews, 8,000,000; Christians, 371,000,000; Mohammedans, 193,500,000; Hindoos, 149,500,000; Buddhists, 483,000,000, and believers in aboriginal fetichism, 189,000,000 thus making a total of 1,294,000,000. The following is the estimated number of religious denominations amongst English-speaking communities throughout the world.

Episcopalians	17 750 000
Methodists of all descriptions	14 000,000
Roman Catholics	13 500,000
Presbyterians of all descriptions	10,000 000
Congregationalists	7,000,000
Unitarians	1,000,000
Minor religious sects	1 500 000
Of no religion in particular	7 500,000
English-speaking population	80 500,000

It Looks Like a Muzzle.

Southern Home.

Robinson's committee has done him no good. The investigation looks too much like trying to muzzle the press. The NEWS has the right to oppose the W. N. C. R. R. or any other measure, it sees fit. The unfortunate controversy, after all, seems to be a personal affair between Mr. Robinson and Colonel Walter Clark, but an official position should not be used to redress a private grievance. The NEWS is mistaken in supposing we oppose the N C R R., for we have made no editorial comments upon it.

HUSSEY & JORDAN, Prop's.

JOHN B. HUSSEY, - Editor.

William Horn Battle.

The incorruptible judge, who dispensed justice with an even balance, alike to the rich and the poor, the elevated and the lowly; the upright lawyer; the christian gentleman: distinguished in an eminent degree for his dignity of character and rare modesty, exemplifying and illustrating the maxim of the poet:

Of their own merits modest men are dumb:
Modest without pretension but firm and unalterable in what he conceived to be right. Such, in brief, was the character of WILLIAM HORN BATTLE, whose demise at Chapel Hill on Friday last was noticed in yesterday's NEWS.

The deceased was born in Edgecomb county, October 17 h, 1802. He entered the sophomore class at the University and graduated at the early age of 18 years, the valedictorian of his class. He read law, after leaving the University, with Chief Justice Henderson. Two years after his admission to the bar he married LUCY M. PLUMMER, a daughter, of KEMP PLUMMER, ESQ., of Warrenton, N. C. After his marriage he removed to Franklin county, locating at Louisburg, to practice his profession. He was elected to the House of Commons from Franklin county in 1832-'34. He was associated with THOMAS P. DEVEREAUX, ESQ., as Supreme court reporter from 1834 to 1839, and was likewise engaged during that time in revising the laws of the State, in connection with that great lawyer and jurist, Judge NASH, whose joint labors resulted in an excellent codification of the laws of the State. He was appointed a judge of the Superior court by Gov. Dudley in 1840, vice the retirement of Judge TOOMER, and was subsequently elected by the Legislature. He was elected Professor of Law at the University in 1845, and labored in that field of usefulness for more than twenty years without compensation, such was his love for his profession and his devotion to his Alma Mater. He was again elected judge of the Superior Court in 1848 by the Legislature, after that body had declined to confirm his appointment to the Supreme court bench. Subsequently, in 1852, he realized the acme of his most honorable ambition and was made a judge of the Supreme court of North Carolina. Far advanced in age but an untiring worker he was again called into the service of his State, and in 1872 was again selected to revise its laws. Battle's Revisal was the result of his labors.

WILLIAM HORN BATTLE is dead. To speak of him is to praise him; to describe his daily walk and conversation as he lived, moved, and had his being is his highest eulogy. He was not a genius. The characteristics of his mind are typified rather by the steady illumination of the well-trimmed lamp than by the scintillations of those brilliant pyrotechnics which for a while dazzle, startle, and amaze, but suddenly expire in the blackness of darkness forever. Simplicity, purity, and earnestness were his chief characteristics; guileless and unaffected as a child he was wise with more than worldly wisdom. "Genius may be admired as the mountain torrent or the lightning's flash for its force and brilliancy, but a higher homage is due to morality and virtue, which should guide the strength of the one and the splendor of the other to beneficent results."

THE 'Friend of Temperance" looks at the Robinson investigation and Mr. Dortch's report from an unbiased standpoint. The Friend says in unmistakably plain words:

"The 'NEWS' intimidation—threatening business, we must say, viewed from an unbiased standpoint, was the most unnecessary piece of work great men could possibly engage in. Besides, there is so much of the appearance of a 'put up job' running through the whole report of the Committee, that the reader is forced to the conclusion that the whole thing was gotted up to pay off somebody's grudge.

THE news from Washington is that Randall has the upper hand." That we expected. He is the most consummate "manager" now in American politics. His election forebodes no good for the extra session. Where is Finley of Ohio. He has presided over the House. Finley is not much of a parliamentarian but that matters not if the present journal clerk is retained.

It might be well enough for the Asheville Citizen in discussing the News' opposition to the W. N. C. R. R., appropriation to observe some caution in its use of deprecatory adjectives.

THE "Clarion" is the name of a neatly printed and well-edited paper, recently established at Edenton, by Mr. W. H. Bond. The "Clarion" and its accomplished editor has the best wishes of the NEWS.

Dr. Grissom Nominated.

Statesville American (Republican.)

The communication of "A Republican" to be seen in another place, suggesting the name of Dr. Eugene Grissom for our next Governor, will challenge the approbation of the people of the State generally, irrespective of politics. Dr. G. is eminently conservative in his political principles, has administrative talents of a high order, is known as a faithful public servant, that has already won for him the merited reputation which he enjoys at home—his scientific fame having passed the boundaries of ocean and won admiration among great men in Europe.

It is sweet to live, but oh! how bitter—to be troubled with a cough, day and night. But Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a speedy and the cost is only 25 cents.

About Words and Phrases.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

LONDON, Feb. 27, 1879.

The "Johnny cake" so beloved by youngsters in the northern States is only the ancient Jannock cake of Lancashire. "Shot," as a synonym for an expense incurred, is a very old word. Lyson, the antiquary, says: "In Queen Elizabeth's reign there was a custom at Chester (then called an ancient one) for the aldermen, justices, &c., to meet every Sunday to have a drinking, and every man to pay a penny towards the shot." Referring again to trash as applied to persons, I may mention that there resided in the last century at Woodchurch, in Yorkshire, John Jackson, a kind of Jack-of-all-trades, who occasionally taught school. He was a great sloven, and hence his scholars used to sing:

"Old Trash
Deserves a lash
Across his buttocks bare
For teaching school
And playing the fool,
And never combing his hair."

Until recently I was under the impression that the use of the word fool as a verb was a purely American adaptation. I find, however, that quaint old George Herbert advises his readers to "fool not." The word once turned from a noun into a verb would speedily be varied in tense, and hence "fooled" and "fooling."

If a man is ruined in Yorkshire things are said to be "Dicky with him." This expression Scatcherd traces back to the fall of Richard III, on Bosworth field, when the memorable warning was given to the Duke of Norfolk:

"Jocky of Norfolk, be not so bold,
For Dickon, thy master, is bought and sold."

I have heard Americans say that "decoration-days" were American inventions. This is entirely a mistake. It has been the custom in South Wales from time immemorial to appoint an annual day for strewing with flowers the graves of the departed. The French have long been accustomed to decorate graves, but they have never made a practice of appointing special and general "decoration-days," as in the United States and in South Wales. Abraham Lincoln's favorite pastime was whittling. In Chaucer's day whittle meant a large knife, and was spelt "Thwittle." Dr. Andrew Winter and Bishop Heber ascribed the origin of "Christmas box" to the time of the Crusades, when the English soldiers returning home imported the word baksheesh, and hence Christmas baksheesh shortened into Christmas baks and box. Largesse, used still in a similar sense in Virginia and the East of England, "came in with William the Conqueror." "Build me" and "get me," instead of "build myself" or "get myself"—thus: "I am going to build me a house," or "I must get me a new hat"—are purely Anglo-Saxon phrases. "Old man," a term so common in Virginia, prevails also in the East of England, where people always speak of their neighbors as "Old man Smith" or "Old man Thompson," etc. "Old man" is also public school slang in England. I forget whether it appears in Tom Brown, but it is certainly used at Rugby and Eton—par exemple, "All right, old man," or "Come along, old man"—from one boy to another. "Topsy-turvy" is an abreviation of "Topside t' other way." "As dead as a doornail" has been traced to a MS. of Pier's Ploughman, preserved at Cambridge:

"Feith without feit is feblere than nought,
And as ded as a dorenail, but if the dedes folwe."

Sir F. Madden said this was a "proverb which has become indigenous, but the sense of which it is difficult to analyze." Mr. Skeat, referring to this remark, said: "I am very much of the same opinion." Despite these eminent authorities it appears to me that if we remember that when we "clinch the nail" we are said to "drive it home," we shall get a beautiful idea. Death comes to all men to "drive them home," and the hammer descends on the nail to "drive it home." A nail in a door when as in old times doors were built to last and were studded with nails, might well seem to the lower orders to have been "driven home" and become "dead" forever. To "turn the tables" on anybody is said by Evelyn to have originated among the Romans, who were given to great extravagance in tables. Thus when a Roman matron was charged with extravagances in dress she used to "turn the tables" on her husband. "Do as I say and not as I do" is found in the writings of Boccaccio; but our Lord said (Matthew xxiii., and 2d and 3d verses) regarding the Pharisees: "Do not ye after their works, for they say and do not." In one of Dean Stanley's recent discourses he very effectively quoted:

"Say well is good: Do well is better;
Do well is spirit: Say well is letter."

from an old writer. Among the curious words used in the Bible is "clouts"—viz., Jeremiah xxxviii., 11 and 12—where "these old cast clouts and old rotten rags" are mentioned. "Murder will out" is a Chaucerian phrase. "Blood is thicker than water" means that blood relations are more closely allied than the god-fathers and god-mothers whose relationship begins with the water used in the baptism of a child. "Old Harry" and "Old Nick" remind us of the Danish conquest of England, when the devil was "Old Erik," "Olden Erik," and "the olden," or "old 'un." "Old Erik" and "Old Eri" speedily became "Old Harry" and "Olden Erik," "Olden Ik," and "Old Nick." "By the Lord Harry" is an oath which illustrates the way in which that many-wived King Hal made his name feared. A very curious illustration of how the meanings of well-known proverbs may in course of time be changed is found in the old ballad of the Babes in the Wood, where, of the parents of the babes we read:

"No love between these two was lost,
Each was to the other kind;
In love they lived, in love they dyed,
And left two babes behind."

This is the origin of "There is no love lost between them"; which we use in a sense directly the reverse of that of the ballad-writer. Gab is an old word for mouth, and hence comes gobble in the same way as gobble from gab. Chaucer makes one of his characters say, "No, though I say it, I am not left to gabble." This also gives us the origin of the common saying, "Though I say it, as shouldn't." "Raising cane"—not Cain—recalls the confusion caused by the mediæval Dr. Birch when he elevated his rod for the chastisement of his pupils. To "take down a peg" has been ascribed to a custom of the time of Edward the Confessor, when "the loving cup" was marked with pegs to show each guest how much liquor to "take down."

The Bible furnishes us with a very remarkable change in the meaning of two words. In the first epistle of Timothy, 5th chapter and 4th verse, we read: "But if any widow have any children or nephews, let them first learn to show piety at home." Nephews here means grandchildren, in which sense the word was employed by Spenser and many other old writers. Piety in the verse quoted is used to express dutiful affection. A great many words in the Bible are obsolete, or in process of time have gained a meaning very different to that intended by the translators.

Protestant was used as a synonym for champion, and thus Herrick wrote:

"Bid me to live, and I will live
Thy Protestant to be.
Or bid me love, and I will give
A loving heart to thee."

The phrase "Robbing Peter to pay Paul" originated in certain transactions relating to the Cathedrals of St. Paul in London and St. Peter in Westminster. Henry VIII. created Westminster a bishopric in 1540. In 1550 Edward VI. "translated" the Bishop of Westminster to the See of Norwich, and summarily transferred some of the endowments of Westminster Abbey to St. Paul's Cathedral. Thus St. Peter's was "robbed" for the benefit of St. Paul's.

The exclamations "Plague on it" or "Plague take it" are constant reminders of the great plague of London, which just at present is a terror to the minds of many people in consequence of the reappearance of the plague in Russia and its rapid progress in a European direction.

Southern editors are fond of quoting "How we apples do swim" which comes from a poem by Dr. Mallett:

"While tumbling down the turbid stream,
Lord, love us, how we apples swim!"

Mallett wrote the life of Lord Bacon, and is said to have forgotten to mention that Bacon was a philosopher. "Glorious," as an adjective, was used by our ancestors pretty much as in the slang of our day. In one of the sermons of Tuomas Adams, a Puritan divine, he denounces Rome as a "glorious harlot." Adams uses the word "correspondence" as a synonym for love. This shows that a notorious colored brother, whom the Rev. Judge Watkins, of Prince Edward, once had to admonish, was not altogether wrong in his use of the word during a certain cause celebre.

Dr. Bagby may be interested in knowing that "bacon and greens" were a favorite dish in Yorkshire long before old Virginia was discovered. "Doughnuts" are another ancient Yorkshire institution peculiar to Ash Wednesday. "Apple fritters" are of great antiquity. "Oyster patties" have been sold at one famous confectionery store in Cornhill, London, since the reign of Queen Anne. "Pork and beans" were carried from Lincolnshire into New England by the Pilgrim Fathers. The following is a list of special articles still cooked in England in honor of certain anniversaries:

Shrove Monday: Bacon collops.
Shrove Tuesday: Pancakes.
Ash Wednesday: Doughnuts.
Good Friday: Hot Cross buns.
Easter Monday: Boiled eggs.
Michaelmas: Roast goose.
Guy Fawkes Day: Parkin.
Christmas Day: Plum pudding, cake, mince pies, roast beef, and boar's head.

"Hot Cross" buns are large currant buns upon which a sugar cross is displayed. "Parkin" is made of oat meal, sugar, treacle and butter, and may be considered the "parient" of ordinary gingerbread. The "boiled eggs" used at Easter are called "peace eggs," and a present thereof is regarded as a peace-offering when friends have been estranged.

ST. ANDREW.

The Conflict of Races.

From the New York Times.

Those who are most learned in the history and diversities of the human race are not agreed on the question of its origin, and the relation to each other of its several branches. The very language in common use in reference to mankind is indicative of the uncertainty that prevails on the subject. We speak of the human race as one, and of races of men as several; and we use the phrase human species when we are not certain whether it is a species or a number of species. But whether we owe our existence to a common ancestry, whose progeny, under the diverse influences of climate and local surroundings, diversed into well-defined branches, with distinct characteristics, or belong to several species that have been separate from the start and mutually repellant to any tendency toward combination, there can be no doubt of the existence now of strong race antipathies, which lead to conflict wherever estranged brotherhoods of the human family comes in contact. There is a milder repulsion among the subordinate branches of the same race, and the one prolific source of quarrel among nations is their dislike of each other.

The great race conflict has raged from the beginning of history, and shows no tendency to decline. Enlightened men may rise above its prejudices and its bitterness, and see no reason why there should not be a man, in which all should mingle freely according to their will, and work and suffer together in a common heritage of humanity. But the mass will not mingle, and thus far when races come together they fight. One seems determined to drive the others off, or destroy them or bring them into subjection to itself: Which shall prevail depends on power and resources and the advantage of position. Whether this is inevitable and is to be eternal time alone can show, and here again we are engaged in the chief experiment of the world. The hostility to the Chinese on the Pacific coast has its root in race-hatred, whatever may be the pretext put forward. Industry and frugality combined cannot fail to be productive to any country, and add to its strength and resources. It is indolence and wasteful vices that beget loss and tend toward ruin. The competition of numbers does not differ in effect, whether part be of one race or another, for every man is striving for all he can get. But the Chinese have been plundered and abused because they are hated for the offence of their origin and their blood, and they are likely to be driven from the continent, or kept from it, because the Caucasian race will have none of them. The difference of feeling on the subject is due to difference of circumstances. Human nature is the same on both sides of the continent, and if the Mongolians had come from the East the race conflict begotten by their presence would have been on the Atlantic coast.

Why have the Indians receded before the face of the white man but because neither would accept the other as of the same brotherhood and neither would submit to the other? The Indians had no organized civilization, and could not drive back the invaders from Europe. They had to give way; and if ever the vast tracts of the western wilderness are occupied by white men, the aborigines will probably fade into the extinction wich they have been threatened for two hundred years. The greed and cruelty of a century ago brought the African here as a slave. For no other position would he ever have been welcomed. His state was one of subjection the most complete, and the unnatural relation produced its own peculiar troubles and penalties. It was changed by the action of that part of the country which was substantially free from the presence of an alien race. Had it not been so free it would never have made the contest for putting the races on equality. Left to adjust their own relations on the same soil, will they remain on an equality? It is an uncompleted experiment, and if it succeed the result will mark a new era in the experience of mankind, and show that the race conflict is not interminable. But the old animus of the "superior race" is still plainly observable. It does not accept equality or brotherhood, and it acquiesces in nominal rights, because it hopes and expects still to make the African a subject race, to be used and led or driven to serve the ends of the powerful. If there is not continued conflict it is likely to be because the weak race will not resist, but meekly accept the place assigned it, that of subjection, which is one of the accomplished results of the perennial struggle.

So it is the world over. Wherever civilized Europeans put their foot on the soil of other races it is to begin a conflict which, if successful for them, must result in driving out, exterminating, or subjugating the native population. There is no question that Chinese labor is a source of absolute profit and advantage in Australia, but there the race conflict is opening as the number of Mongolians begins to look formidable. The history of English occupation in South Africa is but a chapter in the conflict of races by which the natives are driven back or brought into subjection. In India the intruding English are the ruling class, and the natives, wherever they come into relation with them, are to all intents and purposes a low caste, from which service and profit are to be extracted for the behoof of the Caucasian. Perhaps as the long train of ages glides away and generation follows generation this conflict may die out and give way to a realization of the dream of universal brotherhood; but we live in the midst of the bitterness of the strife.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Press Comments.

Wilmington Review.

The Legislature has adjourned. Laus deo.

Warren News

It has been a hard working body, and much very good legislation has been enacted.

Wilmington Star.

We cannot now attempt to express our opinion as to the merits of the work done. Like all similar bodies it has doubtless done some things it ought not to have done and has doubtless undone some things it ought to have done. Our impression now is that it was a better body than the last Legislature.

Wilmington Sun.

The late Assembly was an honest, well-intentioned body which clumsily went about its work, much of which was useful and will redound to the good of the State, but other portions of which cannot fail to do harm as a repeal is impossible for two years.

Lenoir Topic

But on the whole it has been a pretty fair Legislature and the people ought to be satisfied. It is easy enough to stay at home and say what ought to be done, but it is a different thing to go to Raleigh and know how to do it—r knowing how, to find a majority of the members of the same opinion.

Newbernian.

We wish we could endorse the legislation of that body, for there seems to be a chronic disposition among the people to complain of their representatives. But really we do not see anything that they have done, to commend them to either the admiration or the confidence of the country.

A Wayne county correspondent writes:

"If there is no probability of an early adjournment stop my paper until the d——m thing does adjourn."

[These conflicting opinions are curious. It is not possible that even intelligent critics can yet comprehend the work of the session.]

Why a Letter Don't Go.

St. Louis Spirit.

Because you forgot to address it.
Because you forgot to stamp it.
Because you forgot to write the town or State on the envelope.
Because you didn't write the street and number plainly.
Because you didn't put three cents on the letter for every half ounce or fractional part thereof.
Because you used a once-canceled stamp.
Because you cut out an envelope stamp and pasted it on your letter.
Because you used internal revenue stamps instead of postage stamps.
Because you used patent medicine or proprietary stamps instead of postage stamps.
Because you used an old, out-of-date stamp.
Because you used a foreign stamp.
Because you wrote the address so badly that no one could read it.
Because you wrote the address on the top of the envelope, and it was surely obliterated by the postoffice dating, receiving and canceling stamps.

And because you put your letter in a blank envelope and sealed it and forwarded it to—the desk letter office, where thousands of letters are daily destroyed because the people are either careless or ignorant of the postal laws.

Vegetine

FOR

CHILLS, SHAKES,

FEVER AND AGUE.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

DR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, has done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain, all of the time; the pain was so great he did nothing but cry. The doctors did not help him a particle. he could not lift his foot from the floor, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the "Louisville Courier-Journal," that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken eighteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health, walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to chills. Whenever he feels one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine and that is the last of the Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like the most of the medicines recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world.

Respectfully, MRS. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE.—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

SHY VIOLETS.

Violets, shy violets?
How many hearts with thee compare?
Who hide themselves in the thickest green,
And thence unseen,
Ravish the enraptured air
With sweetness, dewy, fresh and rare!

Violets, shy violets!
Human hearts to me shall be
Viewless violets in the grass;
And as I pass,
Odors and sweet imagery
Will wait on mine and gladden me!
[George Meredith.

ROSES AMID THE SNOW.

Why let, O seigneur, those pale roses bloom,
When all is shivering 'neath the winter gloom?
Helas! thou shouldst have blossomed months ago,
Poor flowers, shut up your leaves beneath the snow!
But no! bloom on—within the human heart
Sunshine and tears are never for apart;
Beside these cold white flakes the flowers have yet more charm,
And near the flowers the hoar-frost less alarm.
[From Lamartine by Clara F. Morse.

PIMPERNEL.

The long, black ledges are white with gulls,
As if the breakers had left their foam;
With the dying daylight the wild wind lulls,
And the scattered fishing-boats steer for home.

On the crag I sit, with the Earth before;
The sun behind me is low in the sky;
Warm is its touch on the rocky shore;
Sad the vast ocean spaces lie.

The cricket is hoarse in the faded grass:
The low bush rustles so thin and sere;
Swift overhead the small birds pass,
With cries that are lonely and sweet and clear.

The last chill asters their petald fold,
And gone is the morning glory's bell,
But close in a loving hand I hold
Long sprays of the scarlet pimpernel.

[Celia Thaxter.

A VIOLET.

Sweet flower be thou a type to me
Of blameless joy and mirth,
Of widely scattered sympathy,
Embracing all God's earth—
Of early blooming piety,
And unpretending worth
[James Freeman Clarke.

THE LILY OF THE NILE

You know that great white lily—
That stately cup of creamy snow—
That rears its alabaster lamp,
With broad green blades below?

Madge has within her chamber,
This scion of Nilotian race
To typify the purity
That reigns about the place.

One day, a bud fresh opened,
Shone out a flower, full bloom and fair,
And Madge—it was a way of hers—
Bent down and kissed it there.

Her ripe red lips touched softly
Upon the cup of creamy snow—
O! would that I a lily were
That Madge might kiss me so!

[George Arnold.

THE FORGET ME NOT.

Go, at moonlight's dreamy hour,
Where the silver ripples shine;
Mark a little, lovely flower;
Be that love flower-et thine.

Mild as heaven's own blue, it beameth
Like a clear and cloudless day;
Image of true love, it seemeth
To the heart sweet words to say.
And it
Full drinks its blue eyes glisten.
While from hand and tender thought,
O forget, forget whispers (listen),
[Forget-not.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. Every package McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

HEPATINE.

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MERRELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

STILLINGIA.

Grave mistakes are made in the treatment of all diseases that arise from poison in the blood. Not one case of Scrofula, Syphilis, White Swelling, Ulcerous Sores and Skin Disease, in a thousand, is treated without the use of Mercury in some form. Mercury rots the bones, and the diseases it produces are worse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be. DR. PEMBERTON'S STILLINGIA OR QUEEN'S DELIGHT is the only medicine that gives a hope of recovery from Scrofula, Syphilis and Mercurial diseases. Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The Democratic Senators held a caucus to-day in the Senate chamber, continuing from 2 until half past 3 o'clock. All were present except Messrs. Maxey, of Texas, Jonas, of La., and Hampton, of S. C. The object of the caucus was to take measures preliminary to the formation of standing committees. Wallace was re-elected chairman and Beck, Secretary of the caucus. The following named were appointed as committee to arrange standing committees and to report to an adjourned meeting on Monday at 12 o'clock: Messrs. Wallace, Cockrell, McDonald, Eaton, Ransom, Davis, of West Virginia, Garland, Grover and Pendleton. The caucus after discussion agreed upon the following basis for the reorganization of committees: First seniority, second the choice of committee by one having two or more chairmanships and third the arrangements of chairmanships for the vacancies according to this programme. Eaton, senior Democratic member of the committee on foreign relations, will be its chairman Finance Bayard, Military affairs, Randolph Judiciary, Thurman, Public Lands McDonald, Indian affairs, Coke, Pensions, Withers, Claims, Cockrell, District Columbia, Harris, Patents, Kernan, Territories, Garland, Mines and Mining, Hereford, on Revision of Laws. Wallace and Salisbury has choice of chairman of the three committees, namely: privileges and elections, postoffices and post-roads, public buildings and grounds. Davis, of West Va., choice of chairman of appropriations and agriculture; Johnston of the manufacturers and revolutionary pensions; Gordon, commerce and education and labors; White, of civil service and retrenchment, naval affairs and printing; Ransom, railroads and library. In addition to the above, Thurman was chairman on private land claims, and Johnston chairman of the committee on revolutionary claims, the only committees with Democratic chairmen and a majority of Democrats. In addition to standing committees there are ten select committees, and only two of them having Democratic chairmen, Davis, of West, Va., and Harris. The chairmanship of committees other than those above named will be arranged by the committee.

The Republicans will be furnished with a list of Democratic members and placed on the committee by the caucus in order that they may fill the blanks left for Republican Senators. Following usage in such cases the subject of changing the elective officers of the Senate was not acted upon by the caucus, which adjourned until Monday next at noon.

Taking the Duty off of Coal.

LONDON, March 15.—A dispatch from Berlin says the German Tariff Commission, contrary to the expectation, have resolved to admit coal duty free.

The Wonderful Pittsburg Twins.

A reporter of the Pittsburg Commercial having visited the office of the physician where the babes were, says: Physicians during the afternoon had been dropping in and out, commenting upon the case and expressing wonder. The children lay on their sides, with their little arms folded around each other's neck, and at a casual glance looked like two babes embracing and enjoying the sleep of innocence. They seemed to be about fifteen pounds in weight—one of them being a shade heavier than the other. There was no evidence of malformation in any part—save in the connecting link. The hands, arms, feet and head were as perfectly formed as nature could have made them. As they lay together they were so close that their foreheads touched, but the heads could be moved back and forward as easily as would have been the case in two separated living children. They were pronounced by the physicians to be as pretty babes as any they had ever seen. A closer inspection of the link connecting them showed that Dr Kinker's description had been correct. The flesh was joined together at a line about half way down the breast, and from thence proceeding downward covered a space clear across the front part of the body to within about an inch of the lower line of the abdomen. In all other respects the various parts of the bodies were disconnected and free as in two separate children. When born, it is said, their arms were clasped about each other in the position in which they lay for exhibition.

No home But Has Some Darling There.

Longfellow never wrote more truthful or touching poetry than that inspired poem intitled "Resignation:"

"There is no flock however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there;
There is no fireside howsoever defended,
But has one vacant chair.

"The air is full of farewells to the dying,
And mourning for the dead;
The heart of Rachel for her children crying,
Will not be comforted."

What family is there that does not find its complement in one or more who dwell on the [illegible] river amid the glory ineffable? What family is there that holds not a broken harp, the string of which was once swept by little fingers, now cold and pulseless, but whose hearts now make music in the heavenly choir?

We know that "it is well with the child." But that does not fill the void. We know that the Father doeth all things well, but there is a river that penetrates the pet and idol and joy of the household from us, and we know that it will never be crossed from the nether side. The silver cord has been snapped and it will never be reunited on this side. Put away sacredly the little remembrances; they will never be called for. Tears are the gift which love bestows upon the memory of the absent, and they will avail to keep the heart from suffocation.

How Pierpont must have suffered before he gave voice to that sad refrain:

"I cannot make him dead!
His fair sunshiny head
Is ever bounding round my study chair;
Yet when my eyes now dim,
With tears, I turn to him,
The vision vanisher—he is not there!

I walk my parlor floor,
And, through the open door,
I hear a footfall on the chamber stair,
And I am stepping toward the hall,
I gave the boy a call;
And then bethink me that—he is not there!"

Well, well! I'll for some good purpose that the little human angels of the household come and go. God knows all about it; we do go.

Robinson's Committee.

Asheville Citizen.

Must say the committee's powers did not extend to the authorship of the articles in question, (in the News) especially after the present management assumed the responsibility of them, as this is a species of inquisition and attack upon the freedom of the press that cannot be allowed in a free country. When the management of a paper assumes the responsibility of any articles that may be published in its columns, no individual or individuals have the right to go any further. The grievance then, if any there be, is with the party assuming.

Governor Jarvis Thus Far.

Concord Register.

The "Board of Internal Improvements" consists of the Governor and two others appointed by himself.

Governor Jarvis's appointments thus far, have been characterized by a keen perception of personal fitness, that does credit to his judgment.—The appointment of Col. Johnston, whose large experience and practical knowledge in State and business matters, is one of the best that could be made.

Louisana Politics.

VICKSBURG, Miss. March 15.—The Murrell Convention at Delta yesterday, nominated ex-Governor Pinchback and M. G. Babe, Republicans, and H. R. Lucas, Democrat, a fusion ticket for the Constitutional Convention.

French Foolishness.

PARIS, March 16.—The majority in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday night against the impeachment of De Broglie and Rochebauret cabinets consisted of 183 Republicans and 134 Legitimist and Bonapartist. The minority consisted of 158 Republicans and Bonapartists. The Government's majority taking left alone was thus only 25. Nineteen Republicans abstained from voting. These principally were Ministerialists, who were detered by the views of some of their constituents from voting with the Cabinet. Though they would not vote against it.

The Celebrated Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass

This is decidedly the most useful, besides being the most effient Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache it may be truly said, to have no equal Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases.

Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetis;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. Send worth of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.

Ye muses nine, inspire my pen,
To sing of Fayetteville streeet, No 10,
who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,
will make your rooms and parlor shine.
Perforated mottoes, and white holly baskets.
And every other sort of stuff,
Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids your all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too.

The Danger of Kerosene Lamps

In view of the fact that Kerosene oil is now so generally used for lights, especially since the rise in the price of gas, the following from a medical journal is particularly worthy of attention. A merchant returned home about 2 o'clock at night and found his wife lying on the bed groaning heavily, and unconscious. She was awaiting his return, and at last tired out, laid herself on the bed, after turning down the wick of a lighted kerosene lamp as low as possible without extinguishing it. In this position of the wick, if the oil is bad, a vapor mixed with an innumerable quantity of specks of soot diffuses itself through the apartment and so covers the eyes, nose and respiratory organs, that on falling asleep one runs the risk of suffocation. It is always advisable, therefore, in the use of kerosene lamps to allow the wick to burn brightly or extinguish it entirely.—Charlotte Observer.

Pratt's Astral oil is absolutely safe under all circumstances. Burns in any lamp without smoke or smell. Julius Lewis & Co., sole agents, Raleigh, N. C. *

Good for Them.

A lady yesterday told her husband to be sure to call at one of the drug stores down town and get some more of that Cherokee Indian Cough Cure, for it had done the children more good than anything they had ever used. *

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, whout any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Buhee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Buhee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

Make Your Own Fertilizer.

With ten dollars worth of chemicals, which I will furnish in proper proportions for one ton of fertilizer, added to such materials as every farmer has in abundance around the farm, he can make a ton of fertilizer equal to the best high-priced fertilizers in the market.

It is recommended by leading farmers, such as Mr. Wm. Grimes, J. T. Leach and others whose testimonials I have.

Poetry.

Alone, I've yet one solace left,
Which cheers my broken heart,
And in that thought a thousand hopes
Come springing into birth.
How beautiful the vision seems,
Amidst life's troubled cares,
To drink a glass of good champagne
And smoke MENDELL'S cigars.

A Remedy that has been Remedied.

The invincible repugnance felt by almost every one to the smell and flavor of Cod Liver Oil, has prevented tens of thousands of the victims of debility, from reaping the benefits of its peculiar healing and nutritive properties. The almost hopeless consumptive, the martyr to Rheumatism, the barely living shadow of [illegible] or at least their doctors know, that of all discovered remedies, this Oil is the best, and often the only one that will build up their wasted bodies, and restore their shattered nerves, and far more effective than the Oil by itself is Scott's Emulsion of it, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This is the finest and most natural food and medicine in the world, and wholly deprived of its disagreeable qualities. Sold by Wm. Simpson, Druggist. March 4 d&w3w

Dread and despair fall upon the community when a terrible epidemic, like the cholera or yellow fever, suddenly desolates our homes; yet, all the while a more insidious but no less fatal foe, enters thousands of households every year and carries off the flower of the family in the early flush of manly youth and budding womanhood. People call it presumption, or "decline," it is not, in most cases, the tuberculer path lid or consumption of the lungs, which is the peculiar malady in climates like those of the British Islands and New England, but a general decay or arrest of the vital processes of nutrition. All the doctors agree that there is no remedy for this but COD LIVER OIL, but they are constantly met by the obstacle of inability on the part of the patient to swallow or retain it. This repulsion is entirely overcome by SCOTT'S EMULSION OF THE OIL with the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA which is agreeable to the taste and an unequaled nutrient and tonic for the body nerves and brain.

Rescued, Restored, Revived.

It is marvellous how the rounded outlines of the form are restored, the pale and sallow cheek vivified with the ruddy hue of health; the muscular fibre braced and strengthened, the nervous system and the brain toned and invigorated, by the steady use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It is by far the most elegant and effective preparation in the whole catalogue of medicines, and in the disorders indicated by scrofula, consumption chronic coughs and the various forms of debility, it is a wonderful remedy. It is also deprived of all its disagreeable properties, and as sweet and w atable as cream. feb 14-1p
